PRAISES!

Six years ago, I received a call from a new Wycliffe member asking how she should prepare herself to be an Education Consultant. At that point her main focus needed to be homeschooling her two special needs children through high school and preparing them to live independently. Last month, Chyrl called again, saying, "I'm ready now!" She'd completed everything I'd suggested, and beyond... getting a teaching credential, consultant training, a Masters in Special Education, and a year of overseas experience teaching special needs students at a school for missionary kids (MKs)!

I am so blessed to now have another Education Consultant with whom to 'team'! Chyrl brings a wealth of experience and knowledge that I don't have for supporting and encouraging our missionary families and teachers. I've already asked her to handle a request for help from the MK school in Papua New Guinea, and she's doing a great job consulting with them.

God is also enabling us to implement better pre-field preparation for new Wycliffe families. We now have procedures in place that provide families with consultation about specific issues they need to consider when choosing a place of assignment. What are realistic expectations for what it will be like to raise and educate their children in different locations? What kinds of resources and support are available and what are not? How do they need to prepare for meeting their family's needs, through God's provision, in the place to which He calls them?

WHAT ABOUT RETIREMENT??

God is answering our prayers to provide younger people to take over my responsibilities. Chyrl will serve from Dallas where her husband is assigned and where many of our members go for linguistics training. We still need someone who can be based in Orlando to connect with all the new members and with families who are returning for furloughs. So, please keep praying! Another area of concern may be met by a teacher with whom I taught years ago in Guatemala. Beth has become a School Psychologist and has begun fulfilling her dream to travel overseas to do educational assessments for missionaries' children! One by one, and in His time, God is bringing those He's designating to provide care and encouragement to the families involved in giving His Word to every tribe and tongue and nation. Thank you for so faithfully contributing to this goal!

Enjoying getting to know my great niece, Makena, on her first birthday.
